

Dear Colleagues and Fellow Providers,

We are writing to formally invite you to become a member of the Alameda County Fathers Corps, a county-wide team of male service providers trained to help strengthen families by fostering constructive engagement of fathers in the care and upbringing of their children. Members who join us for year 5 will commit to actively participating in a nine-month training series that will include 10 trainings and one acknowledgement/celebration in June 2018. We are pursuing this work with firm commitment to the mission of the Fathers Corps, i.e., to promote and support fathers and father figures to be meaningfully engaged with their children and families, and to advocate for family service providers to provide father friendly services and to assist fathers in strengthening their parenting skills.

The first Fathers Corps Training will take place Friday, September 15, 2017, 12:00 pm - 3:30 pm at First 5 Alameda County, 1115 Atlantic Avenue, Alameda.

BACKGROUND

The Alameda County Fathers Corps, established in 2013, is a collaboration between First 5 Alameda County, Alameda County Health Care Services Agency, and Alameda County Social Services. The Fathers Corps is designed to increase involvement of fathers in their children's lives by focusing on factors specific to the needs of men and the challenges they face in fulfilling their role as fathers. Since June 2014, the Fathers Corps has graduated an energetic team of 60 male Father Engagement Specialists, 18 male Father Engagement Mentors, and 12 male Fathers Corps Ambassadors from its learning community. After participating, Fathers Corps members reported work-related improvements in a number of areas including increased knowledge of child development; feeling more supported in their work with fathers of young children; and feeling more connected to other male providers in the community.

THE MODEL

The Fathers Corps provides free training opportunities to male service providers on a range of topics such as fathers' roles in child development, trauma's impact on brain development, parental rights and responsibilities, working with teen fathers and other topics essential to effective father involvement. Trainings are from 12:00 pm – 3:30 pm and will begin September 15, 2017 and conclude June 15, 2018. The principal objective of the trainings is to support male providers who serve fathers by discussing how the training content relates to their work with fathers. The trainings are also designed to inspire providers to become advocates for supporting the needs of fathers in Alameda County. Providers will help strengthen families by fostering constructive engagement of fathers in the care and upbringing of their children and raising the awareness of the need for their agencies to have programs in place to serve fathers. Upon completion of the training series, participants will have a greater understanding of early childhood development and early care and education, an in-depth knowledge of the communities they serve, and greater awareness of successful father engagement strategies and of services and programs that support fathers and the development of young children. Ideally, Fathers Corps members will be available to county and community-based programs to provide support and engage fathers and families in Alameda County. Family service programs such as Help Me Grow, Alameda County Healthy Start Initiative, Special Start, and other Alameda County family-centered programs request the support of Fathers Corps members when working with families.

In addition to participating in professional development on early childhood topics, participants are expected to make efforts to work with their home agencies to adopt and implement the Father Friendly Principles.

New Fathers Corps participants who attend at least 7 of the 10 Fathers Corps trainings will receive an Alameda County Fathers Corps Father Engagement Specialist certificate. Returning Fathers Corps members who attend at least 7 of the 10 Fathers Corps trainings will receive an Alameda County Fathers Corps Father Engagement Mentor certificate. Returning members will have the opportunity to expand their roles within the Fathers Corps.

Research shows irrefutably that children who grow up without a father actively involved in their lives experience significantly higher rates of depression, alcohol and drug abuse, failure in school, teen pregnancy, criminal activity and incarceration, adult poverty and other lifelong challenges. Conversely, children with constructively engaged fathers are far more likely to live happier, healthier and more successful lives.

We urge you to join us for year five of the Fathers Corps and commit yourself to its mission.

All trainings are from 12:00 pm – 3:30 pm; lunch is provided. Below, please see the proposed 2017-18 training calendar. The topics and themes are based on our most recent training calendars and are subject to change.
